Will Invinity Energy Systems sell VS3 vanadium flow batteries to Taiwan?

Invinity Energy Systems is pleased to announce a 1.1 MWh sale to Taiwan's National Applied Research Laboratories ("NARLabs").

The project will see five Invinity VS3 vanadium flow batteries ("VFBs") with a combined capacity of 1.1 MWh installed inside a building at the NARLabs laboratory in Taipei.

What is a vanadium flow battery system?

Vanadium flow battery systems are ideally suited to stabilize isolated microgrids, integrating solar and wind power in a safe, reliable, low-maintenance, and environmentally friendly manner.

VRB Energy grid-scale energy storage systems allow for flexible, long-duration energy storage with proven high performance.

What is a vanadium-lithium hybrid energy storage system?

The vanadium-lithium hybrid energy storage system aims to combine these advantages to create a technology that is safe, flexible, and durable. "This marks a breakthrough in energy storage technology," Xing Mobility Founder and CEO Hung Yu-chun () said.

Is Taiwan a good place to invest in battery energy storage?

Taiwan has been a strong early mover within Asia-Pacific when it comes to battery energy storage deployments.

In just the last few months, Fluence bagged a 100MW order with a power electronics group while the Taiwan Cement Corporation has been growing its order pipeline to subsidiary NHOA, the France-based EV and energy storage group.

Who makes VisBlue redox flow batteries?

VisBlue is a private production and development company and a spin-out from Aarhus University and the University of Porto with four co-founders.

VisBlue is based on know-how within the redox flow battery technology.
